Pastoral letter

Dear Friends,

In our TV and papers today, we are hearing and seeing the results of war in Ukraine and other countries. As a country we are supporting the oppressed and the displaced, hoping that sense will prevail, and peace will come soon to their lands.

Peace is used in the New Testament in different ways, such as the absence of war, or a good relationship among people, peace as an individual state of serenity, peace as a greeting and, centrally, peace as a right relationship with God.

Our Church Awayday at Holy Rood House was a great example of time spent peacefully enjoying our surroundings and reflecting on our relationship with God and each other.

What a lovely day – the weather was perfect, and all boded well for a relaxing and enjoyable time together.

Fourteen of us took part in our Away Day, which had been postponed from 2020. A time of fellowship and reflection in the wonderful surroundings of Holy Rood House.

Our day started with a time of prayer in the chapel, where we were introduced to the theme for the day.

Weaving for the Church and Community

*Weaver –God, Great Spirit, may we see your face
Tapestried in trees, in waves, and winds of space;
Tenderness teach us, lest we be bereft
Of love and justice joined-
The fabric's warp and weft. (Kate Compston)*

Meaningful Embroideries
by Pamela Pavitt used by us for reflection.

*Blessed be you, Spirit, weaver of all;
the earth is shot through with your radiance. Spin your threads of kindness and grace that as we weave together in the warp and weft of this day we may cradle and comfort and share, so that others may weave in colours and threads of their own. Knit our joys and sorrows together with your love, and where we are frayed and torn, mend us in mercy.*

*Weave us in gratitude, O God this day
(Tess Ward)*

We all need a time of peace and fellowship, which the day provided. The embroideries by Pamela Pavitt were very thought provoking. We were asked to find one or two that seemed to stand out to us and why. We took time for silent reflection and a time to sit still in the garden or chat with friends. Some embroidered, weaved or painted; the day was ours. We enjoyed a lovely lunch and plenty of tea/coffee and cake, which always lifts the spirits. The weather was beautiful and warm, an added bonus!

Spring Weaving

*She weaves her way
And on her way, she weaves a way to Spring*

*The woven cloth she weaves away
A gentle cloth, a dancing cloth
Prepares the way to sing!*

*She weaves a way that sacred way
With the hope it has to bring*

*A strong made cloth
She weaves away
Encompassing everything*

*She weaves away and weaves away
Aware of what weaving will bring
The woven cloth God weaves for us all Answering prayers for the Spring
(Tina – Holy Rood House Poetry and Art) book)*

I hope that we all left feeling refreshed and renewed in spirit, ready to tackle life's challenges. The day ended in prayer and praise. Thank you to all the staff at Holy Rood House.

Peace I leave with you; my peace I give you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled and do not be afraid. John 14: 27

Keep collecting

My UPDATE on the Church of Scotland's World Mission [now Faith Forum] USED STAMPS and POSTCARDS APPEAL, with warm thanks to each of you so kindly supporting this:

Run for the Church for over 50 years now [each year technically being March to February] as a unique one-man venture by Keith Scott of Motherwell, the three years 2019-2021 were rolled into one due to the slump in postal communication and the impact of Covid, yet nevertheless had a fine result, £4,340, for the long-standing Women's and Girls' multiracial Rescue and Rehabilitation work of the Kandy Presbyterian congregation, Sri Lanka.

The 2022 appeal now running [initially for this one year but likely to have to be extended later] will go to give relief to the poorest families, also to the key leaders and workers of the National Evangelical Synod of Lebanon and Syria - the one Protestant Church across much of this homeland region of Paul the Apostle. Their employment, financial, and so, daily life situations and prospects are dire due to corrupt politics and politicians, man-made disasters – recall the Beirut harbour explosion- and the Syrian war's devastation. Their detailed Relief Appeal statement [available to borrow on request] speaks of some 28 needy working pastors across the two countries, 7 head teachers, many promising pupils [future leaders], let alone 55% of the population below the poverty line.

Humanly speaking, it's their church's continuing existence, no less, that's at stake... What difference, then, can the stamps and postcards appeal make? Next to nothing, on its own. But playing our part along with many Scottish congregations, plus many organisations around the world, 'every little helps' – immensely. Thank you for pressing on to find and send or hand in any and every stamp and used postcard you can lay your hands on!

Pastoral care

I know we are now into May but due to being off work sick I never had the opportunity to share with you some of the exciting ventures that happened over the Christmas period. So, I'd like to do that for your encouragement but also, I'd like to you continue to pray for the ongoing work.

Carol Singing

For some years now Sowerby Methodist Church have been building stronger links with Sowerby House Care Home. This relationship has been aided by having members of the Methodist Church as residents there and via the SMC coffee mornings and Movie Tuesday's sessions. So, at Christmas when an opportunity arose for them to do some carol singing for the residents Covid restrictions weren't going to stop them. They put on their winter woollies & ventured into Sowerby House gardens to sing carols for the residents. There were only a few residents, but they certainly appreciate it.

Memory Church on Tour

You may recall back in December 2019 & February 2020 we hosted two Memory Church – Dementia Friendly Services. However, since then I have not felt it has been the right time to restart. However, I approached Thirsk Dementia Day to undertake two interactive carol service sessions. A lot of fun was had making Christmas crafts. Followed by much laughter when reminiscing about nativity plays and re-telling the Christmas story using an interactive service produced by Elizabeth Stacey, who was the Pastoral Co-Ordinator for Mission to Seniors at Winchester Baptist Church

<https://www.embracingage.org.uk/uploads/4/6/0/4/46043761/good tidings of great joy leaders copy.pdf>.

Revd. David Biggs, from St Oswald's Parish Church did a short reflection.

The second service involved us making Christingles & Rev Denise Williamson, Methodist Minister lead a more reflective service.

At both sessions everyone was in fine singing voice for some carols and enjoyed Andy & Karen from Thirsk Methodist Church as they played and led the singing.

Since then, we have returned at Easter to do two Spring & Easter themed sessions. See, the photos to get a glimpse of the type of activities we did. We have had a request to go back in on a monthly basis. For me this is 'Memory Church on Tour'.

The Story Stones were designed & donated by Sprouts Story Stones a new local small business. You can find out more on their Facebook Page or Instagram@sproutsstorystones.

I designed a mixture of activities for each session. My aim is to engage people 'spiritually' by doing this. It is inclusive for those of faith and those with non. The Service at the end of the session includes some familiar hymns such as All things bright & beautiful and for one of the sessions I played What a wonderful world by Louis Armstrong.

The story stones I was able to use with a person who was living with dementia and very limited speech. The person could lay them out and retell the story.

It is so encouraging to seeing folk engaging in both verbal and non verbal ways around Spring and being creative in the activities, looking at dementia friendly pictures and doing jigsaws. It is also amazing to see people with limited speech singing along to hymns and saying the Lord's Prayer.

It is such a privilege to be reminded that even if we experience memory loss, we can hold onto the truth that God never forgets us. Within these sessions it is interesting to observe how others can hold the person's life story whether that is a family member, another attendee or a member of staff.

In working alongside the manager at Thirsk Dementia Day Service it highlights again the important role of unpaid carers and the challenges they face. Carers Week 2022 runs from June 6th to 12th. It's an annual campaign that raises awareness and recognises the contribution that unpaid carers contribute to our communities. This year's theme is; 'make caring visible, valued and supported'. Maybe you know someone who is a carer? Why not take the time to consider how you can support them.

Elfde Gebod

Finally, I have been able to start my long planned post-retirement European trips with visits first to France, then to Belgium and Netherlands. By the time you read this Czechia will have been added to the list. I have travelled 4,198 miles, gazed on wonderful scenery from the train window, wandered around beautiful cities, ridden on one hundred- and twenty-five-year-old trams as well as brand new ones and enjoyed excellent food in great restaurants. One of these restaurants was in Antwerpen and looked unpretentious and run-down from the outside but I was drawn in by the 'Belgian Menu' advertised on a board outside.

The building dates from 1427 and its publicity describes it as 'A unique culinary pub with a spectacular interior in the old town of Antwerp, Belgium: that's the 'Elfde Gebod'. Surrounded by angel & saint statues, pulpits and several heavenly sacrilegious visual jokes, you can enjoy our delicious local Belgian cuisine as well as an enormous variety of famous beers', All that is true. The Flemish Stew was exquisite, the red house wine very enjoyable, the waffle dessert heavenly and the staff hard-working, friendly and attentive.

Mind you, I nearly walked straight out because instead of menus to select from you had to scan a QR code and read an online menu on your phone. However, the wonderful young staff persuaded me to stay and found some old paper menus for me. A number of the dishes had Biblical or theological connections such as the 'Apostles Fish Stew' or the 'Chicken cooked the Biblical way' but that wasn't what intrigued me most.

The cutlery and serviette came in a paper pouch which had on the front '11 Question Game' and the eleven questions were listed on the back. They were positive questions designed to bring a smile to your heart. The instructions were to 'Ask the question from a person whose answer interests you the most'. Being on my own naturally I reflected on them on my own. Then I thought about Zion. If we had a fellowship group the questions would make for a wonderful evening as we discovered more about each other. We don't but that needn't stop us.

I would like us all to reflect on just two of the eleven questions, namely;

4. Why should someone start believing in God?

10. What's the best part of going to church?

When you have reflected, please send (or give) me your answers to aid me in my preparation for leading worship on 7th August.

Oh, nearly forgot - 'Elfde Gebod' - it is Flemish for Eleventh Commandment. As for the other nine questions, you will have to wait but I did use one of them in worship on Sunday 8th May.

Always there

Psalms 23 doesn't say, "The Lord is a shepherd" or "The Lord is the shepherd". It says, "The Lord is my shepherd" And if He is my Shepherd, I will not lack:

- .. Peace and provision, for He gives green pastures and still waters.
- .. Hope and encouragement, for He restores my soul.
- .. Guidance, for he leads me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
- .. Deliverance in tough times, for he's with me even in the valley of shadows.
- .. Protection, for His rod and staff comfort me, and He prepares a table for me in the presence of my enemies.
- .. Help and healing in all the events of life, for He anoints my head with oil.

- .. Endless blessings, for my cup overflows, and goodness and mercy will follow me all my days.
- .. Eternal life and heaven, for I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Lessons of life

Ideally this piece now should have been my first writing on the above theme, for it's our conversion (or not) to Christ, our living relationship (or not) with Him, that determines how we all of us see and react to so many of life's lessons that come our way. I grew up in a Christian home, was taken and then readily went to worship and Sunday school every week (despite the hated itchy Viyella shirt that came out anew each time), learnt and thought of Jesus as my Friend, and took it for granted (didn't everyone?) that God, His and our Father, was Maker of this wonderful world. So, Sundays at university found me and lots of fellow students regularly at church as my father had been before me.

But, cocksure teenager as I was at 19, (heeding not my father's saying more than once "if you're convinced black is white, you'll argue the hind leg off a donkey to prove it is so"), I deserved and needed to be taken down a peg or two. That happened publicly, in a first-year language translation class, when to some clever comment of mine the lecturer paused, looked me in the eye, and said quite deliberately, "Mr Smith, if you're so sure you know it all already, why have you bothered coming to university?" Brutal, but necessary...

My inner world came crashing down. Who did I think I really was? Who was I to suppose I was better than anyone else? In my misery I tried to drown my sorrows in cider (!) (mercifully there were no stronger drugs to hand). But when I came to again, the blessing was that I'd already made particular friends at church of two fellow students, Douglas from Leeds and David from Guisborough, and though I never told them until two years ago of my inner brokenness then, they just naturally treated me with real friendship, believed in me and in what I could become, and even invited me to join them in the student lay preaching team that bicycled out to nearby village chapels. I realized it was actually the living Lord Jesus they each believed in and followed who made the massive difference I saw in their lives and their treatment of others, and I wanted this Jesus to be my Lord too – which He honoured then and has ever since. "Ransomed, healed, restored, forgiven, who like me His praise should sing?"

More of the consequences of this radical change of focus in life in following issues of the magazine, God willing - except for this one point now: it was some three months after this transformation that I preached my first sermon, at the Baptist chapel in Grantchester (yes, the very village whence young Rupert Brooke drew the strength of happy memories - "stands the church clock at ten to three, and is there honey still for tea?" – amid the horrors of trench warfare). I still cringe at the memory of my preaching - for I, a very new Christian indeed, told them (who'd mostly been Christians for forty or fifty years at least), how to say their prayers... There was still much insensitivity in me yet to be broken down! But the wonderful thing was, they were so appreciative, so glad of my sharing with them in worship – precisely the encouragement needed for my own walk with Him

Come, taste and see!

Applegarth Community Garden & the Incredible Edible Network

If you haven't already seen it, do visit the Applegarth Community Garden which is taking shape in the Applegarth Park on the other side of the Auction Mart to the Secret Garden. There are now plenty of seats, including two wheelchair friendly picnic benches, so you can enjoy the space and watch things grow and change.

The initial idea came from the work of the joint churches together "One Northallerton One Planet" group.

We wanted to create an open and accessible space for people and wildlife, where fruit and veg were grown sustainably and the general public could pick produce for their own consumption. We wanted to inspire others to grow their own, even if that was just some potatoes in a bag or a courgette in a pot, or even planting up a derelict bit of waste land.

There are very few "food miles" involved when your food is grown in your own back yard or town, and probably negative carbon emissions when grown organically without chemicals and eaten when it is in season. And many would say that you can't beat the full flavour of freshly picked produce!

We decided to join the Incredible Edible movement which began in Todmorden in the West Riding in 2007 in response to increasing global concerns over climate change, food sustainability, and community change. Their aim is to create kind, confident, connected and resilient communities through the power of food.

The Incredible Edible model revolves around the metaphor of three “spinning plates.”

- The first, “community”, refers to growing food on public spaces that anyone is allowed to take from. By accomplishing this, it hopes to transform people's relationship to the environment and spark new conversations.
- The second plate, “business”, means supporting local-food firms. Whether it is local food producers, distributors, or restaurants, the goal of this plate is to strengthen the local economy through things like the “every egg matters” campaign and “vegetable tourism” – (happy to expand on these if asked!)
- The third and final plate is “learning”. The idea of this plate is to incorporate the first two plates by educating and passing on skills. It strives to engage with schools, local farmers, and businesses by sharing knowledge and passion for food growing and cooking.

We have already discovered a whole new community a people keen to be involved; whether that is tending the raised beds, wildflower meadows, fruit bushes and trees, or working with young people, or spreading the word and encouraging others to start new mini plots around our community, or a myriad of other roles. Please ask Liz or Lesley if you would like to know more or follow us on Facebook:

How to appreciate God's gift of life

Life should NOT be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in an attractive and well-preserved body,
But rather to skid in sideways,
chocolate in one hand,
wine in the other,
body thoroughly used up,
totally worked out and screaming
“WOO HOO what a ride!”
